THE PRESIDENT'S CAMPAIGN OPENER

President Hoover delivered the first speech of the campaign at Des Moines, Monday evening. It was a typical political speech, full of promises, some commendatory and some that have little or no virtue or lend encouragement to the average citizen. He was true to that ideal he has followed throughout his entire administration that "the goodness of a thing is in its bigness." In one breath he explains much of our present plight to indebtedness and bad use of credit but to cure the ills of today he pledges himself to pass out more credit, and thus stave off the evil day of settlement that the nation can once more get its feet on the ground.

He took praise for checking printing press money which is due him, and he attempted to justify his act of the moratorium and the millions upon millions that were poured into foreign countries to save them, which in the end drained this country of capital that threw our financial institutions on the rocks. He took credit, which was his, for government support of our financial institutions—that is the large ones, the hundred million kind, while thousands of smaller banks went to the wall. He at no time in his speech offered a word of hope for the depositor that had his money tied up in banks and building and loans. The average citizen is more interested in this than most anything proposed.

His defense of the tariff was of course to be expected in that he signed the bill much against the pleadings of some of our leading manufacturers. His interest in the tariff was all in favor of steel and aluminum trusts. With thousands of factories idle and no shipments going abroad owing to the tariff it is not likely his defense will be accepted by capital invested or by labor that is now idle. He ignored entirely that more than forty nations had gone on a high tariff basis, instead of free trade, and that a reciprocal tariff is all that will restore business conditions in America.

One promise in his address is to abolish the Federal Farm Board but this was not said until after loading the failure on the agricultural interests that the membership was named on the recommendation of farm leaders. Imagine farm leaders placing the names of Wall Street interests for membership on this board!

His first open statement against cancellation of foreign debts is hardly in line with past performance. With a representative of England in this country a few weeks ago for this purpose and secret meetings held in a summer camp in Maine with government representatives smacks of some suspicion. More over Wall Street bankers are depending on Andrew Mellon to bring about such cancellation. It is going to be a superhuman task for a Chief Executive to make good on his public utterance and at the same time satisfy his Wall Street friends. But this cancellation program will arise after the election when a new reason will be found making this gift of billions necessary—all at the expense of our own citizens.

Much of the President's speech was devoted to agriculture and the good the tariff and farm board had been to the American farmer. He says that while prices are low in this country they are still lower in other countries. He failed to explain why wheat was higher in France and why wool sold for less in America this summer than in any other nation. His only farm item mentioned was cattle, being 2-1-2 cents south of the Rio Grande and 4-1-2 north. The President stated: "Ninety per cent of your market is at home, and I propose to reserve this market to the American farmer." In explaining why foreign countries increased their tariffs the President said: "Many of these countries would decrease their tariffs against our industrial goods tomorrow in exchange for reduction on their farm products." With a reciprocal tariff, which the trusts do not want, this situation can be cured. The whole weakness of the President's plan so far as it related to tariff and agriculture was in his statement that a treaty was now ready for ratification to provide for the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway to give relief to western agricultural products which would strengthen Midwest agriculture in reaching out to world markets. By careful analysis the President first states ninety per cent of the farm market is at home. His second statement is that foreign nations have closed their markets to American farm products; and his third that the new water-way will provide a new market for farm products abroad. His system of marketing this ten per cent surplus is about as reasonable under the present tariff set-up as his plan of paying debts by more debts.

Some of the things the President did not dwell upon are the bonus, why attack has been made on World War veterans, and not $5,000 and $6,000 retired army and navy pensioners. He also failed to discuss at any length what is demanded by all the business interests of the nation, a twenty-five per cent reduction in the cost of government.

The printed copy of the speech occupies about ten columns of newspaper space and the friends of the eighteenth amendment will wear a blister on their nose running up and down the pages finding a statement in support of the "noble experiment." In as much as the Republican platform promises resubmission and the party leaders are making platform pledges that the party has the only feasible way to bring back beer and reduce government costs, by that tax, we take it the President is satisfied with what his party is pledged to when Congress meets. His speech on the wet-dry issue will hardly satisfy either of the contending forces on that issue. After all it was a great political speech, one to arouse the hundreds of thousands of office holders to action to save their jobs whether the nation survives or not. To those who judge everything from the political angle we suggest that no definite decision be made until something is said at a later date on the other side of these controversial issues.

METROPOLITAN EDITOR OUTSPOKEN

Col. Robert R. McCormick, Republican, owner and publisher of the Chicago Tribune, the leading Republican paper in the middle west, is speaking in the larger cities attacking the enormous growth of government costs. Coming at this time and in view of the fact that the Tribune has opposed much of the administration program, politicians are wondering what it is all about. When you attack governmental costs you strike at both political parties, for their growth depends on the number of political appointees and the salaries they receive. The present national administration has been the most costly in the history of the nation, it exceeds that of any nation in the world. Already thirty percent of the income in the nation goes to pay government cost. This has alarmed business interests as never before in view of the fact that industry can hardly meet taxes let alone find a profit for stockholders.

Col. McCormick spoke over the radio from Cincinnati on Tuesday. He said all government costs in the nation this year will reach $18,000,000,000 which the American people cannot pay. The Government must cut taxes or go bankrupt. The proposed $750,000,000 cut in Federal taxes demanded by business interests is but a start he says.

Contrast this speech with what President Hoover stated to an Ohio delegation, representatives of the farm, manufacturing and retail interests some months ago. After presenting the proposal for a 25% reduction in government costs, the President politely informed the delegation he was not interested. A call was next made on Senator Fess, who resented the request and informed his visitors he was elected to use his "own best judgment." Business leaders have undertaken a great task of reforming congressmen and senators about reducing governmental costs. Free barber shops for our national legislators, restaurants at public expense and a hundred other ways to milk the public treasury, tempt the best of them.

The recent decision of the Ohio Public Utility Commission on the Columbus gas rate of 55 cents has stirred up a new political tangle involving both Republican and Democratic candidates. For months the rate case has been prominent. First Gov. White refused to accept the resignation of John Bricker, member of the commission, because a decision had not been made. Bricker stated he was ready to give a decision but members Geiger and Hoppel were not. The U. S. court had held a 48c rate was enough in a suit and the gas company asked more, 65c. Hoppel and Geiger agreed on the 55c rate and Columbus will appeal the rate.

Wednesday the Ohio State Journal in a front page editorial demands that Geiger resign as a candidate for Ohio Supreme Court, being a Republican nominee in that he has never had even a chance of election. The editorial in further comment says: "The Republican party, which nominated him, ought to disown him. To spare his party the disgrace Geiger ought to withdraw his name from the ballot. And in January the Legislature ought to oust him from the commission—along with White's man Hoppel." Geiger is from Springfield, Ohio, and is a brother of the senior member of that once famous "Geiger-Jones Co.", that unloaded many thousand dollars' worth of stocks through L.T. Marshall as representative of that company.

The Cincinnati Enquirer is placing all candidates, Republican and Democratic, on "the spot" relative to public questions with a questionnaire. Each candidate is asked to answer the questions for public information and the answers are printed. Here are a few of the questions, most of the candidates refuse to answer or ignore:

If elected will you vote for immediate cash payment of the Soldier's bonus?

Will you favor investigation of the $1,000,000,000 veteran's expenditures, with a view of cutting off benefits of non-service disability?

Would you vote for a general pension for World War veterans and all dependents?

Will you vote to reduce by at least half next year the $11,500,000 which the Government to carry blank letters and documents through the mails?

Do you favor a substantial reduction in appropriations for expenses and luxuries for Congress? This item covers restaurant, barber shop, garage and salaries to members of families of congressmen?

Last year the government printed 12 million pamphlets to be used for propaganda. Will you vote to reduce his flood of government reports?

Will you vote to reduce the appropriation for Washington city which has jumped from 26 million dollars to 32 million in seven years?

Will you vote to retrench in the Department of Commerce that is spending $61,000,000? Also the Department of Agriculture which cost $220,000,000? and only $110,000,000 seven years ago? This does not include the amount spent by the Farm Board.

Do you favor winding up the affairs of the Farm Board?

In view of the fact that the national income has decreased 30 percent, do you favor a 25 per cent reduction in Federal taxes?

Columbus ministers on Monday refused to be made a mule to pull the political band wagon for President Hoover. A call was issued for all ministers to meet Monday to arrange for the coming of Dr. Daniel Poling, who is campaigning for the Republican National Committee and using an airplane to go from city to city. The ministers were asked to meet at the Y. W. C. A. but only two showed up. With the two were a few politicians and the meeting grew into a heated argument. Rev. John Wislow, became incensed and stated he would cast a "protest vote" for Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate, because of Hoover's stand on prohibition and economic problems. Another organization is to be asked to sponsor Poling.

Some time ago there appeared the statement in the local W. C. T. U. notes that millionaires wanted the return of beer to get the tax to reduce their income taxes, thus throwing the cost of government on the laboring men that drink beer. But who are the millionaires wanting the liquor tax? Rockefeller, Duponts, Harriman's, Morgan's, Davidson's, and a hundred more millionaire international bankers that having reaped a great profit through the Hoover administration, now ask his re-election.

Gilbert Bettman, candidate for U. S. Senator, continues to drive home the point as to the wets that the Democratic plan will not work and it beer and whiskey are over returned it will be by the Republican proposed method. Senator Buckley, asking re-election is also favoring repeal and both have been holding public debates. In the list of candidates is one dry candidate on the prohibition ticket. Who can name him? How many dyes will be true with their conscience and vote for him? This same party has a dry candidate for president but he will not be elected. The choice will be made between two wets. While dyes debate and fiddle away their time one of two wets will go to the Senate to vote for some kind of repeal of prohibition or nullification, which will be just as welcome by the wets.

The two leading party newspapers in the city of Cleveland passed under one management this week. A new $9,000,000 company has been incorporated to direct the two papers. The Plain Dealer, morning, was a Democratic paper; The News, Republican, and both will each retain their respective leanings. The ravages of the depression has cost the two papers hundreds of thousands of dollars, which has put many a Republican paper on the fence this year.

A Chicago jury has found indictments against two multi-millionaires, Samuel and Martin Insull, head of the Insull Utility companies, that went into bankruptcy recently. "The losses to stockholders, numbering more than a million will amount to more than two billion dollars. Martin has taken refuge in Canada; Samuel in Paris and London. Both announced following the collapse of their companies that they were broke but it now turns out they took many millions' out of the company. Both have refused to return to this country to stand trial. The State of Illinois will ask Canada to deliver Martin which can be done by a treaty for the exchange of those wanted on such charges. But if Samuel gets from Paris to London before the papers arrive he will be safe for England does not recognize this exchange on such charges. In as much as the Insulls are foreign born the whole country is awaiting to see what action President Hoover and the State Department will take. Both were very close political friends of the President Hoover. He has another political associate, Maurice Maschke, who is on trial in Cleveland in connection with a shortage of $177,000. Maschke was formerly National Committeeman from Ohio.

Henry Ford, the giant in the industrial field, one of the greatest economists in the nation, some months ago had something to say about reduction of industrial wages—that such were not necessary, and would only tend to continue the depression. With declining business Ford has faced the real problem of the depression—"How to sell a car to a laborer, farmer, stockholder, that has no income?" Last week he announced a drastic cut in all wages and we are told his plant is closed, throwing out many thousands employees. It's the fellows on public salaries that are telling you things are getting better.

As we glance over the various newspapers and notice column after column of foreclosure sales we can only wonder what the harvest will be following the election. Some weeks ago an appeal went out asking that where possible foreclosure suits be stayed until November 1st anyhow. This went to those having in charge the liquidation of banks. What about after the election? What will take place then? The same interest that asked for the stay will have nothing to say because the election will be out of the way. After all it may be an accommodation to let a property owner vote first before he must move by order of the sheriff.

Interest continues in the straw vote conducted by various newspapers in the country. The Columbus Dispatch Wednesday totals were: Hoover, 8,372; Roosevelt, 17,148; Governor, Ingalls, 1,189; White, 2,261.

The Cincinnati Enquirer vote was: Hoover, 3,603; Roosevelt, 7,388; Governor, Ingalls, 4,094; White, 5,688. Literary Digest vote: Hoover, 100,323; Roosevelt, 102,185.

The interesting vote is from the Des Moines, Iowa, Register, owned by Cowl, who President Hoover appointed on the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Hoover, 27,081; Roosevelt, 16,500.

C. N. Stuckey informs us that conditions in the commercial fruit orchards in West Virginia, were never worse. Peaches brought little or nothing. The prospect for apples is little better. Mr. Stuckey has a nephew that has an apple orchard of 800 acres. The growers are at the mercy of the middle men in the way of marketing the fruit crops.

The National Economy League, that is opposing immediate payment of the bonus is having its trouble meeting demands that other interests beside the Veterans be included in the cut. Richard E. Byrd, who flew over both the poles and across the Atlantic is out against the payment of the bonus. Byrd was retired from the Navy as "physically unfit" and draws as his "bonus" $6,000 a year. Not bad for an "invalid" that can span the seas from pole to pole. Admiral Simms, retired at $6,000 yearly, recently announced his resignation as an honorary member of the Legion owing to the demand for bonus. The national officers were quick to announce he could not resign for he had never been given that honor.

The Ohio legislature finally after a lot of controversy over a period of several days, passed laws to reduce public salaries in the state and for counties. There are some judges that draw big salaries that have terms that do not expire this year, and they could not be reached for a reduction. They are all asked to refund down to be on par with those elected this year that must take the reduced salary. It was charged that some of the state officials had increased salaries of the appointed class to be ready for the cut. A proposal for an investigating committee to look into the milk trust in Ohio brought opposition from Senator Robert Taft, Cincinnati, sponsor of the classification law. It was charged that one company controlled the milk situation in Ohio. Like the fruit business the middlemen are taking all the profit and producers hardly getting cost.

COLOR RELATION

By CHERRIE NICHOLAS

Color relation as expressed through the costume has grown to be a very vital theme in the scheme of things. The prevailing sentiment is for accessories which are a perfect color match. This movement takes in every item from head to foot. The idea is carried out to a nicety in the ensemble pictured. The eyelet embroidered dress which is done in a handsome open-work patterning is in brown and white. The gros grain ribbon belt is brown as is the ribbon belt and the swatch of ribbon at the neckline. The kid pumps are brown and the hostery is the same brown, only it appears much lighter on account of its sheerness. The fancy beaded strap across the instep adds interest to this pump, which is an exponent of that which is smart in way of street and afternoon footwear.

STYLE NOTES

Black and white is as popular as ever. Crinkly rough crepe is still in the lead. Soft/full sleeve is a feature of the newer modes. Designers use wide girdles to give the modish high waistline effect. Latest styling places emphasis on criss-cross and surplice fastenings. Flower leis and flower sprays bordering part of the decollete enhance many an evening frock.

TWO SIDES TO THE QUESTION

An Anti-Saloon leader in a large city was driving home one afternoon when a high school student asked for a ride. The lad was picked up. Neither knew the other. The driver of the car asked his youthful companion what he thought of the wet and dry question. He replied that he was a wet sympathizer, giving as his reason the newspapers and magazines that he read. He said that he felt as though the evidence pointed in theone direction. The Anti-Saloon leader then proceeded to lay before this young mind a few facts. He listened attentively, asking a question now and then. When he alighted from the car he feelingly said to his friend, the Anti-Saloon League leader, "I want to thank you for your information. I really didn't know that the dry side had any sound arguments." The proponents of liquor would have us believe that there is only one side to this matter, that anyone who differs with them is fanatical, crazy, ready for some institution for the feeble minded. Our newspapers and magazines caricature the dry as a foolish-looking simple-minded specimen of humanity in order that they might belittle the other side of the issue. Millions of dollars are being expended to influence young folks, to believe that your father, your mother, your pastor, your Sabbath school teacher and anyone else who is dry, does not know what they are talking about.

As Bishop James Cannon, Jr., left for Europe, he urged the election of United States senators and representatives opposed to repeal of the prohibition laws or resubmission of the question. "While of course the selection of the best man for President is very important," he said in a statement, "the prohibition emphasis should be put on the election of congressmen and senators opposed to submission, as the half-way house to repeal and as a direct invitation to repeal, and opposed also to repeal itself, the eighteenth amendment being far better and more enforceable than any of the proposed substitutes."

There will be still another source of revenue if the country goes wet. That will be fines of drunk automobile drivers and penalties for hitting and killing people. It will yield a very large total in a country with so many millions of automobiles and plenty of opportunity to get the goods.

—Christian Advocate.

As a famous B. & O. train pulled into its station in Chicago, the engineer walked by the booth of the pro-liquor group and asked:

"You're in favor of booze, eh? Would you like to ride on my train if I was drunk, or even if you knew I had been drinking?"

And at a hotel pro-liquor booth, a woman stopped to ask why anyone should want to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment:

"Do you really want to flood the country with liquor?"

"Oh, no," was the reply, "but we really must get rid of these awful gangsters."

"And how do you propose to get rid of law-breaking after the Eighteenth Amendment is repealed?"

"Oh, that's so easy. We're going to continue this organization and stop crime by working on the criminals' hearts and redeem them by moral suasion."

There you have it all.

Do Fertilizers Pay?

From a survey conducted in Ohio, Indiana and Michigan 4541 Farmers answered—YES.

With wheat figured at 40c per bushel they all claimed it paid to use FERTILIZER as their yield was from 8 to 11 Bushels per acre more than where they did not fertilize.

With the New Lower Prices on Fertilizers the extra yield and higher quality of grain will more than pay for Fertilizer used, even if Wheat should not advance in price and NO Farmer will sow a grain of Wheat this fall if he does not expect to get a higher price next harvest.

Lesson for October 9

THE CHRISTIAN IN THE FAMILY

Golden Text:—I will behave myself wisely in a perfect way. O when wilt thou come unto me? I will walk within my house with a perfect heart. Psalm 101:2.

Primary Topic:—Jesus' Happy Family.

Junior Topic:—The Home Life of Jesus.

Intermediate and Senior Topic:—Being a Christian at Home.

Young People and Adult Topic:—Making the Home Christian.

Confessedly our subject is a strange one to fit to the texts selected by the Lesson Committee. Jesus is the central person in both texts. It is manifestly improper to think and speak of him as being Christian. He is the eternal Son of God made flesh (John 1:14). A Christian is one regenerated by the Holy Spirit and joined to Jesus Christ by faith of the ground of his redemptive work. Two views of him are presented in these texts:

1. Jesus in the Home of His Mother and Joseph (Luke 2:4-52).

2. Jesus growing (v. 40). While Jesus Christ was divine, yet his deity did not interfere with his development as a human being. The processes of his physical and mental growth were the same as those of any normal human being.

a. He grew and waxed strong. It was necessary for his body to develop. His brain, nerves, and muscles must not only attain unto their proper sizes, but must become correlated.

b. "Filled with wisdom." His mother-er doubtless was his teacher in those early years. It is reasonable to assume that she taught him to commit Bible verses to memory, and told him the great narratives of patriots and prophets of the Old Testament.

c. "The grace of God was upon him." God's love, favor and tender care were upon him.

2. Jesus found in the Temple (vv. 41-47). At the age of twelve the Jewish child took his place as a worshiper in the temple. He was then considered a "child of the law." Being conscious of his mission, Jesus tarried behind in the temple when his mother and Joseph left Jerusalem after the Passover. When they made search for him, he was found in the temple.

a. He was found sitting (v. 40). He was no passing visitor or night-seer, but at home in his father's house.

b. He was hearing the teachers of God's Word (v. 40). He was eager to learn God's will.

c. He asked questions (v. 40). His growing mind inquired after truth.

d. He answered questions (v. 47). His answers astonished those who heard him.

3. Mary's complaint (vv. 48-50). She remonstrated with him for his behavior. To this he replied in a dignified, yet tender manner. He made no apology, showing that he was more than the son of Mary. God was his father.

4. Jesus' obedience (v. 51). Though he was fully conscious of his divine being and mission, he lived a life of filial obedience, teaching us that obedience, teaching us that obedience.

COLLEGE NOTES

Dean Steele has completed the seating of students in the chapel according to classes. The chapel and part of one wing is entirely filled.

Professor Hostetler gave the final Ohio State University Psychological test to about twenty-nine students who are intending to take the teacher training course. The total number preparing to teach is ninety. Professor Hostetler has a class of nearly fifty in "Introduction to Teaching." Miss Angeline has the largest class in English Survey that has taken it in years.

Cedarville College received a nice little gift of six hundred dollars for the annuity fund from a friend during the past week. This friend is nearly eighty-five years of age and will receive eight and six tenths percent interest semi-annually during life time. This Annuity Fund is tax-free. The donor does not have to look after the interest nor worry about the tax. The interest is sent promptly to the giver. Cedarville College now has about eight thousand dollars in Annuities. This makes a fine investment for any who would like to put their money in a safe place and get a good rate of interest free from tax and worry. Cedarville College has never failed to pay the interest promptly.

Cedarville College needs the support of all of its friends by word, effort or gift. One good turn you can do for the college is to interest young people in attending it. The next semester opens January 30 and it will furnish a fine opportunity for any young people who were prevented from entering this fall. You can help the college by interesting people of means to give to its Current Fund and to its endowment. Cedarville College is one of the best assets in this community to the business interests and to the intellectual and moral progress and welfare of our citizens.

The recent football game between Cedarville College and Rio Grande College was played on the Cox Field, Xenia, last Saturday night. There was a good sized audience present. It was one of the best games the past years. The boys played well but the Rio Grande boys played a little better. They had the heavier team also. Homer Murray distinguished himself by carrying the ball eighty-five yards, and across the goal line. The next game will be with Fairmont State College, W. Va. on their grounds Saturday, October 8.
